

Russian Mosaic Festival at Penn's Landing Sunday, September 19, 2010 Great Plaza at Penn's Landing, Philadelphia

Celebrate the heritage and history of the former Soviet Union's republics during the "Russian Mosaic" Festival at Penn's Landing. For the fourth year, the Russian speaking community of Philadelphia will join together to rejoice in the rich traditions of their culture. The "Russian Mosaic" festival showcases original folk, classical ballet and ballroom dancing performers. Highlighting the concert:

In addition to the music and dancing, Russian, Jewish, Georgian, Moldavian and Middle Asian cuisine will be available from popular Philadelphia restaurants like "Melodia" and "Paradise" sell authentic Russian and Georgian dishes. Artisans will present traditional Russian crafts including woodcarvings, paintings, jewelry, needlework and photography. Kabala Learning Group, Lubavitch Center for Russian Jewry, Russian Christian Mission and other organizations will represent different aspects of the rich and diverse spiritual life of the community.

Pricing: Ranges from $1,500 for booth space and up depending on setup logistics.

Attendance: 7,500

Time: Noon-6pm.

Demographics: Family audience of Russian descent. People interested in the Russian culture, decor and food.

Contact:
Sharon Tice
Sponsor Philly Events
215 763 1200
sharontice@sponsorphillyevents.com